Energy Channeler

Actress and Hammond Robotics Influencer- Trinity Lewis would be surprised if someone hadn't heard of her. However, the celebrity had humble beginnings: the only child to an engineer and scientist duo who helped develop the cooling towers that made Talos accessible for Branthium harvesting. Since birth, energy had always been a part of her life- from being the poster child in the resource extraction hot-spot, New Dawn- to playing around the raw Branthium her parents experimented with. While she survived the unfortunate cooling tower explosion that took her parent's life, it seemed like her connection to the energy flowing through the planet grew even more- it now literally able to path its way through her nervous system and out her of hand.

Trinity convinces Hammond Robotics that the best representation of the good standing alliance with the Syndacite is giving her the role of a lifetime: a chance to compete in the Apex Games- And though a life of solitude and stardom hasn't made her the best at teamwork- her flow with energy will force her to take one for the team... maybe even multiple ones for the team!
